THE DESERTED MINE.

By Robert Leslie Small.
I am only a shaft,
A hole in the ground,
A grave that's forgotten—
My vitals the mound.

I've tured to adventure
The weak and the bold,
And I willed to the world
A curse wrapped in gold.

I've scoffed at ambition,
Caused dreams to come true,
Gave toll to the many
And wealth to the few.

I've builded up cities
And seen them decay—
For all that I've given
I've taken away.

I've stifled men's honor
And sneered at their shame;
I've courted the lowly
And raised them to fame.

I've purchased gay titles
And cast them aside;
I've mourned with the widow
Rejoiced with the bride.

I've lifted lowly manners
To sit with the pure,
And I've dragged virtue down
In shame to endure.

I've added to riches
And caused them to fade,
Made princes of paupers
And jeweled the maid.

A tomb of emotion,
A casket of tears,
I've sponsored fair revels
And fond mothers' fears.

I am only a shaft,
A hole in the ground,
A grave that's faded
Of hopes lost and found.

McVeigh by two votes, according to the official canvass of the ballots, will ask for a recount of the returns for this office. BIG DOUBLE BILL AT THE BUTLER TODAY

A double feature is offered at the Butler today, consisting of Harold Lloyd in his first $100,000 special two-reel comedy, and June Caprice, the winsome star, in "In Walked Mary." In this southern romance June Caprice plays the part of Mary Ann Hubbard, a pretty little southerner, whose sole possessions are a faithful and devoted colored mammy and a down-at-the-heel cabin on the outskirts of the town. Mary, who is very young, innocent and inexperienced in the ways of the world, encounters a knotty question, but the manner in which she solves it will prove satisfactory to the old and the young, who will find clean, wholesome entertainment in "In Walked Mary." Those who live to see a real good comedy cannot afford to miss Harold Lloyd, the screen's most popular comedian, bar none, included in this special comedy is a large chorus of beautiful girls who help to increase the interest in this wonderful comedy.

Monday, Rex Beach's greatest story of the frozen north, "The Silver Horde."
